

From: Danny Crawford
To: Microsoft ATR
Date: 11/17/01 2:35am
Subject: I don't believe it

I can't believe you people allowed Microsoft to get less than a slap on the hand. I had a business that was forced to close because we were unable to get a product into the market because Microsoft has such a strong hold on the desktop operating systems. Microsoft dictates what developers can do with their software and they also dictate what a consumer can do with the software. Clearly after reading the Microsoft Windows End User License Agreement Microsoft is not selling you the software they are renting it to you because at any time they can take it back from you even though you have paid such an expensive price for it.

I understand that Bush ask the DOJ to stop pursuing Microsoft. That being the case I can assure you that my vote will be a lot different this time. I can now see the Bush does not have any concerns about the welfare of consumers and consumer's rights.

-Danny